

We have been very happy with Indiana's "no-call" law which has allowed us to have some peace from persistent telemarketers. But if anything the law needs to be strengthened; your proposal for a national law might weaken ours. Yes a national law is needed but it should be as strong as possible, i.e. few if any exceptions.